

DELIVERING RESULTS...increasing sales

Interim Sales Director

Introduction

The function of a Sales Director / Manager is critical in helping businesses grow. The problem may not need to be a full time resource. A part time or interim Sales Director is a great alternative providing the capability to drive the organisation and achieve the results required to help the business grow to the next level. This external and experienced help can be provided for as little as 2 hours or up to 2 days a week, though tends to work best when continued over the longer term.
